Enhance Consumer Confidence in Your Thermometers

Under the Medical Devices Act 2012, thermometers need to meet regulatory requirements for safety and effectiveness before being sold on the market.

In today's New Normal, where contactless temperature scanners are more essential than ever, manufacturers and importers can demonstrate compliance and meet expectations of regulators and customers by certifying their companies and thermometers with SIRIM QAS.

*We are accredited by the Department of Standards
Malaysia to conduct medical devices certification based on
ISO 13485.
